YANAKA CEMETERY MATCH: TEXAS JESSE TOMBSTONE vs. VIC "THE VICIOUS" VROPTA

Shooter Simmons: After months of stalking and tormenting Jesse, Vic gets his off-site match, that was taped last night and even WE don't know what happened... until now! [the arena screen flickers and shows the cemetery covered in fog, as Jesse confidently strides into the hallowed ground and scans the grounds and goes to call out his enemy, when a hail of salt to hi eyes, leaves him momentarily unable to see! Vropta appears out of nowhere and hits Tombstone with a, well, a tombstone that shatters! Vropta cackles as he rolls Jesse into an open grave and raises his arms in victory. He just did that to a former IWA champion and we all have to wonder if he will be ready today after a night like that! [498-494]

BULLROPE DEATH MATCH: BRUTAL BRIAN WELCH vs. COWBOY JIM SPUR

Rick Challenger: Now here we have a good ol fashioned match between two guys who don't like each other, not that I blame Welch for disliking Spur, since Jim ambushed him while he was shopping at a CVS. Welch has been on fire since he arrived and referee Willy Pinnem barely got the bullrope strapped on, before Brian tore into Spur. The psychotic cowboy was on defense most of the match, until he used that classic go-to move, the mule kick to the crotch to take control of the match! Spur was far more focused on drawing blood from Welch than he was dragging him to the four corners, which gave Brian his opening to regain control of the bout. Brutal Brian lived up to his name, and he battered Spur with the cowbell and locked on a walking-sleeperhold as he touched three corners together, before putting Jim to sleep and letting go so Spur passed out into the fourth corner to give Welch the win in his Wrestlerama debut. [493-488]

GLOBAL TRIOS TITLE SHOT: BROTHERS HEYMAN: RIPPER, BRUISER & BUSTER

vs. REGULATORS: JAMES CARNAGE, BLACKJACK ROBERTSON & JESSE TOMBSTONE

SS: Yo, the biggest question here was if all of the Regulators would be able to make the match, but Jesse, looking hungover from getting a tombstone busted over his head, made it. While ALL of the Regs made it, the Brothers Heyman were unable to make their connecting flight, as it appears the Pilot was inactive and as a result: the Regulators won. [513-n/a]

BOINK THE CHILD ENTERTAINER vs. FRANDEL WARPSLAYER (with Dapper Dan Dee)

RC: For months Boink has been cruelly pranking the ever-paranoid Dan Dee, who asked the roster for help and found and unlikely savior in the enigma known as Frandel Warpslayer. Both men want a win on the biggest show of the year, but from the start, Boink is full of jokes. Hand buzzer handshake, that doesn't amuse the Galactic Bounty Hunter who earns his pay in this one as the Clown proves tougher than he expects in this hard-hitting slugfest. The action gets gritty as Boink gets serious as the impacts of Warpslayer's power moves hit home, but side-stepping a clothesline gives him a chance to use his Flower to squirt something into Frandel's eyes! Warpslayer's wild swings miss and allow Boink a chance to use a Schoolboy Roll Up to get the 1, 2, 3! Dan entered the ring to console a visibly upset Warpslayer, but instead of accepting the handshake, Frandel yanked Dan forward and leveled him with a short-arm clothesline! Shocked fans booed Warpslayer as he pulled the skinny mic-man Dan off the mat and lifted him up for a powerbomb, but the fans erupted in cheers as Boink came to Dan's rescue! Boink fired off s series of punches and clotheslined Frandel over the top rope as crowd goes wild! Warpslayer has words for Boink as the unlikely hero helps Dan to his feet. [494-492]

GLOBAL TAG SHOT: THE REGULATORS: TEXAS JESSE TOMBSTONE & SHOTGUN JAMES CARNAGE

vs. THE MCFLAHERTY BROTHERS: BRENDAN & RUAIRI

vs. DARK VERDICT: VEX VERILLI & GAVEL GRAVES

SS: The vacant Global Tag Team titles will be filled later tonight, but each of these teams are hungry to get the first shot at the champs. Unfortunately for the Regs, Jesse has not recovered from the Yanaka Cemetery match last night and the other teams make him their top target. As a result, Carnage does his best to carry the load, but that wears him down fast too. The rookie duo came out on fire and took it to the vets, but just as their fast-paced, high-impact offense looked to set them up for the win, a blind tag in by Jesse gave him a chance to save James from a sure three count. Tombstone launches a volley that staggers Vex and Ruairi but gets caught by a knee to the back from Graves that slows him down enough to give Brendan a chance to dump Verilli to the floor and join his brother in hitting the Sign of the Cross. James Carnage goes to slide back in the ring, when suddenly he is grabbed by two masked men at ringside who delay his breaking up the pin as Ruairi gets the 1... 2... 3! The fans go wild as the McFlaherty Brothers have earned the Global tag team title shot at Imagibash 26! Carnage is fuming as he missed out on making the save, and yanks the masks off the Von Snapp brothers: Alex & Axel! They've been feuding for a decade and now their battles has come to the BRL! [513-508-508]

WRESTLERAMA 14

RC: Hold on, before our next match, we have a special announcement coming from Commissioner Dick Jackson.

[The fans leap to their feet as Eddie Grant's "Electric Avenue" fills the air and DJ does the Mad Dog strut. He is grinning broadly at the response, but it changes to a serious nature as he addresses the champions in the ring.]

DJ: Fellas, Ah gotta say yah been top notch champs since yah filled those belts when they got vacated, but here's the thing, y'all up for any challenge? (the Males nod and urge him on) Good. Since the trio that was originally gonna get this shot, lost one of its member, RIP Mad Max Red Wolf and the DOD didn't want to name a sub, Ah went and gave the shot to the top ranked team in the BRL right now. So, Ah want them Polar Circle boys to bring it and give us all a great match. Whooo Jack!

GLOBAL TRIOS TITLE MATCH: ALPHA MALES #15, #69 & #87 ©

vs. POLAR CIRCLE: CRUSHER KNUUTILA, LOW BLOW LEHTEMAKI & TINY JORENSON

RC: What a match up we get with the two best trios in recent BRL history going all-out to win this one. The Males use their similar looking appearance to confuse the refs and their opponents, some call that cheating of pulling a fast one, but me? I call it expertise. My favorite of the AM's 69, is large and in-charge here, but even all his power can't beat the odds. Polar Circle's team work, fast tags and combination moves wore down the big man until they hit the Triple Finisher! Crusher made the cover and got the three count to become the new Global Trios champions. [521-515] The celebration by the Polar Circle is short lived as storming the ring and attacking the new champs are the Regulators! No doubt their earlier losses still sting and the Regulators stomp the hell out of the Polar Circle to send a message that they are coming for their belts!

NORTH AMERICAN CHAMPIONSHIP: KING KHAN © vs. HILLBILLY KEVIN vs. AMERICAN DESTROYER

SS: This may be the toughest defense yet as Khan faces two members of Pain & Destruction who are equally hungry for gold, but there is something going on with Kevin. The fans know it, PAD knows it and most of all, Kevin knows it. The PAD fellas were on the same page, until Kevin hit the Hillbilly Stomp and made a cover, and was yanked off by Destroyer. AD and Kevin exchanged words as they argue over the match, but give time to Khan to recover and blindside them with a flying knee that sends Destroyer into Kevin and then to the floor. Kevin and Khan battle back and forth as Destroyer snatches Hillbilly Kevin's Golden Horseshoe from the Time Keeper's table and sneaks it into his tights. In the ring, Khan goes for an Irish whip, but it is reversed and catches referee Matt Burns in the middle. Kevin checks on the ref as Khan sets for his finisher, but American Destroyer enters and readies to hit Khan with the Golden Horseshoe. Only when he goes to swing, Kevin goes to stop him from using it and gets clobbered! Hillbilly down! Khan hits a dropkick to send Destroyer to the floor! Khan covers and gets the 1... 2... 3! King Khan retains as Hillbilly Kevin and American Destroyer argue. [494-491-486]

RC: What? Commissioner Jackson is back with ANOTHER announcement! He better not be un-retiring like Tom Brady!

Commissioner Jackson: Buckle up kiddos. Now y'all know that them Armed Forces ain't shy about tryin' to injure their opponents before a match, but this time, Have got a step ahead of em'. See, Ah've went to the locker room and Ah'm adding Ricky Savage and Syd Credence to the match to determine the NEW Global Tag Team champs baby! Let's do this!

GLOBAL TAG TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP: TRIPLE THREAT MATCH

THE ARMED FORCES: HE-MAN HOVEN & THE TOTAL PACKAGE U.S. MAYLE

Vs. RAZZLE DAZZLE: FAB & RAZZLE

Vs. THE DIABOLICAL KINGDOM: RICKY SAVAGE & SYD CREDENCE

RC: As former IWA Tag Team champ, I can tell you, tag team gold is special and these guys ALL want the Global tag belts, but only one team can win. The Armed Forces jump the Dazzles from behind and get this one going fast as Ricky and Syd sort in and we have a wild scrum of fists and slaps. Talk about flashback to my ex, yeesh! The action gets to the ring and look out below, Fab Dazzle goes to the top turnbuckle and soars high in the air towards Hoven, who side steps and guides Fab into the ringside barrier! I think Fab's body went in the shape of a "Q". Yuck! The ringside Doctor is checking on Fab as the match continues and Savage and Syd take control of the match. Remarkably, Fab waves off the ref and crawls to the corner. Razzle goes to the ropes for a big move, but Fab, tags himself in! I'm no fan of this guy, but that's crazy, don't be brave, take five and let your partner do the work. Not this guy! He shakes as the fans charge him up, or it could be a seizure from breaking his spine, either way he tries his best to chop Mayle's chest, but there's nothing behind it. Hoven sneaks in and the Armed Forces give him a double powerbomb! I think they just killed Fab! Wait, Syd tackles Hoven out of the ring as Ricky shoves Mayle out and covers to get the 1... 2... 3! We have new Global Tag Team champs! [514-508].

WRESTLERAMA 14

2 OUT OF 3 FALLS: FIRST BLOOD / I QUIT / AMBULANCE. BIG GUNS GREG GARNAR vs. MONSTER TRUCK TANAKA

SS: Yo, one of the IWAR's greatest rivalries has come to this, a three falls match where each fall is different. Whoever draws First Blood will win the first fall and that is perfect for these two. Greg uses his steel chain to bash Tanaka across the back and then, pow, right in the kisser! The ref checks Tanaka, but gets shoved aside and he punches Greg, but Garnar fires back with the chain over and over until he busts Tanaka open! Blood pours down Monster Truck's mug and the ref calls for the bell to give the first fall to Big Guns! [220-215, BGG 1-0] The ref calls for a break and orders Greg to his corner, as Tanaka wipes the blood out of his eyes. Garnar charges across the ring with steel chain in hand, but Tanaka vaults himself out of the corner and hits his finisher, the Kaizen Kick right to Greg's jaw! Big Guns is staggered as Tanaka comes off the ropes and smashes Garnar with clotheslines from all directions. Tanaka goes for the Love Glove Lock, but storming the ring is Greg's Pain & Destruction stablemate, the Ferryman River Foggs who breaks up the submission hold and trades shots with Tanaka. Knowing Foggs isn't part of the match, he hits Foggs with a Kaizen Kick to the crotch that would have earned him an instant DQ in any other match. Tanaka turns back to Greg, but he spears MTT out of the ring and both men land on the concrete hard! Garnar staggers up and grabs the steel chain, but Tanaka spins around him and gets him in the Love Glove Lock! Tanaka lets go a moment to steal the steel chain and wrap it around Greg's face and reapplies the Love Glove Lock, driving the chains into Garnar's face! The sound of Greg's nose breaking makes a ringside fan vomit and Greg shakes his head no, but the chain it across his teeth, no don't do it MTT, don't NOO! He broke teeth and Greg taps out. The man from Japan evens it. [141-139, MTT 1-1] We are all tied up as a Jerry the Janitor mops up the puke, but Greg, angry over the loss of the second fall, grabs Jerry and punches him in the face! No, not Jerry! Grab picks up the mop bucket and blindsides Tanaka during the break and our third fall is underway. Tanaka is drenched in filthy water, but Greg slips on the water and he gets DDT'd! What a mess! They are back at it as they battle their way up the entrance ramp and just to the right of it, sits the Ambulance with the back doors wide open. They trade punches back and forth, until Greg blocks and uses a deep face rake to stun Tanaka as he teeters on the edge of the stage right by the Ambulance. Garnar circles and charges at Tanaka who spins and scoop powerslams Greg off the ramp and into the back of the ambulance! Cheers fill the air as Tanaka slide out of the ambulance, clutching his arm, and I won't be surprised if he broke it hitting that move. MTT stands and uses his good arm to close the Ambulance doors to win the deciding fall. [139-134, MTT 2-1]

GLOBAL CHAMPIONSHIP MATCH: THE NARCISSIST LEX STEVENSON © vs. HOT $TUFF ADAM CASH

RC: A main event fitting of the Wrestlerama name, Lex Stevenson, a recent US champ and winner of the IWAR Cup will be challenged by the top competitor in BRL history, Adam Ca$h. The bell rings and they exchange words as the fans begin to chant. The larger Lex dares Adam to shoulder block him and Adam gives it a try but find himself bouncing off the powerhouse. Ca$h chuckles along with Lex as he is invited to try again. Adam tries from a different angle, but is once again ping ponging off. Stevenson flexes and taunts the fans and Ca$h, who asks for one more try. Lex laughs and agrees. Ca$h charges off the ropes and launches, but instead he hits Lex in the knee with a missile dropkick! Stevenson howls in pain and disgust as Adam slaps on a head lock and tries to take control, but Lex grabs him, lifts and tosses Adam into the corner. Lex rubs his knees and rushes Adam, but Ca$h slips under the bottom rope, snatches Lex's ankle and rams his knees into the ring post. He goes for another, but Lex flexes his leg and sends Adam into the railing. The sting of the crash has Adam clutching his lower back, but he is quickly grabbed, picked up and body slammed Adam onto the Iranian Announcer's Desk! The desk is destroyed and Adam reaches for his back again as Lex stalks Ca$h, picks him up and rams him back-first into the ring post. The fans boo as Lex hits a pose to show off his physique as Adam winces in pain, and the ref urges them to get back into the ring. Once they get to the ring, Lex looks to end this early and goes for his finisher, the Torture Rack, but Ca$h slips out and rolls him up with a sunset flip for the 1... 2- NO! Lex is annoyed and smashes Adam with a series of forearms across his injured back before sending Adam in the ropes, but when he comes off, he turns Lex's clothesline into a crucifix cradle, but as Stevenson fights it, Adam's boots clip referee Kenny Beetum in the head and he's down. Adam rolls Lex up and the fans count "1, 2, 3!" but the ref is out. Lex kicks out and signals to the back. As Adam lines Lex up for a Hot$stuff Superkick, Ricky Savage and Syd Credence storm the ring and attack Adam! They seize Ca$h and Lex winds up with a steel chair, but out of nowhere Fatty the Butcher, King Khan, Vex Verilli and Gavel Graves storm in to clear the ring. Lex smashes Fatty over the head with the chair, but when he turns back to Adam, he catches a dropkick that drives the chair into Lex's mug! Adam checks on a bloody Fatty and goes off on Lex with a series of punches and jabs. Lex absorbs them all and comes off the ropes and hammers Adam with a tomahawk shoulder block! He covers Adam, but Ca$h kicks out at 1 and the crowds erupts in cheers. Lex takes notice and sneers as the fan's chants grow louder. The Narcissist attention for the fans costs him as he turns back into a $uperkick to the knee that drops him down, then another to the jaw that stuns him long enough for Adam to hit the Headbanger's Guitar Shot! The crowd erupts as the ref counts 1.. 2... NO! Lex powers out, but he is groggy, so Adam spins around, points to the sky and hits the Dedicated DDT right onto the steel chair that was left in the ring! Lex drops hard and the ref counts 1... 2... 3! Ca$h beat the unbeatable Lex Stevenson and is now a two-time Global champion with a little help from an old friend. [494-493]

Shooter Simmons & Rick Challenger
Dick Jackson, Angela Hurtz, Dapper Dan Dee

BRL Commissioner: “MADDOG” DICK JACKSON

One of the IWA’s most popular stars to ever compete in the IWA, DJ retired into the IWA Hall of Fame in 2018 (<http://playiwa.com/archives/v23n06.htm>), but returned to be the Commish in the NWL soon after. After a great run there, he came back to the BRL as the ‘Common sense Commissioner’ and his fair, but firm style works well as he looks to put on the best shows by giving every star a chance to shine.

Ringside Interviews: DAPPER DAN DEE

He may be nervous and skittish, but he is determined to ask tough questions, which doesn’t mix well with his habit of bring up wrestler’s losses and mistakes.

Backstage Interviews: ANGELA HURTZ

She’s bold, aggressive and knows her stuff as she updates the BRL’s record books by recognizing the big wins and achievements by the BRL’s champions.

Color Commentator: RICK CHALLENGER

The controversial heel’s heel, is a two-time IWA Hall of Famer (<https://playiwa.com/archives/v25n06.htm>) and brings his Badd Co. energy to every broadcast. While he has a habit of overlooking the sinister actions of those nasty rulebreakers and making fun of the fan’s favorites, he offers great insight.

TV Announcer: SHOOTER SIMMONS

When he isn’t bringing up his ex-wives, his gambling losses or his poor choice in social media friends, he delivers great play-by-plays while calls the BRL’s hard-hitting competition on every show.

IWA Referees: Kenny Beetum, Matt Burns
& Senior Ring Official Willy Pinnem

WILLY PINNEM

The longest tenured referee in IWA history, he started as a wide-eyed sixteen-year-old as the BRL’s youngest referee and now in his fifties, he’s seen it all. He isn’t afraid to get in the face of the biggest brawlers or made a hard call that may anger the fans, but Willy always does his best to call the match fair n’ square.

MATT BURNS

A series of injuries ended his Sumo wrestling career in Tokyo, but Johnny B. recognized his love of wrestling and helped him become a referee. Burns has an encyclopedic knowledge of the IWA rulebook and sticks too it, but he denies rumors that he has a ‘slow count’ when it comes to pins.

KENNY BEETUM

The youngest of the BRL’s referees is known for letting things slide as he is often intimidated by the wrestlers, but he is trying his best. Kenny’s nerves can show up in his ‘fast counts’, but he is getting better at controlling the mayhem in the ring.

Tuesday Night Grand Slam Ignites: Chaos, Carnage, and Collision Courses

If you thought BRL was going to take its foot off the gas after Wrestlerama, think again—because this episode of Tuesday Night Grand Slam comes out swinging and never lets up.

With tensions still boiling over from recent battles, the night quickly spirals into unpredictability. What starts as a simple open challenge turns into an all-out slugfest when the unhinged Joe Tusa answers the call, pushing Brutal Brian Welch to his absolute limit in a fight that's as chaotic as it is hard-hitting. But in BRL, nothing stays one-on-one for long...

Meanwhile, the tag team division explodes into motion as Oliver Livingston and Dank Danger collide with the dangerous pairing of Adam Cash and King Khan. With momentum swinging wildly and bodies flying, this one delivers high-octane action at every turn—but it's an unexpected presence that threatens to steal the spotlight entirely.

And if you're looking for a statement performance, Big Guns Greg Garnar reminds everyone exactly why he's the measuring stick in BRL. The Kansas City Kid steps up with something to prove, showing flashes of brilliance and heart—but stepping into the ring with a seasoned veteran is a different challenge altogether.

Oh—and just when you think you've seen it all, three forces of destruction collide in a triple threat that blurs the line between wrestling match and all-out war. Vic Vropta, Nocturnal Death, and River Foggs don't just compete—they survive each other.

This isn't just another episode. This is Tuesday Night Grand Slam—where every fight matters, every moment escalates, and nothing ever goes to plan.

ONE ON ONE JOE TUSA VS. BRUTAL BRIAN WELCH

Opportunism Strikes Again: Brutal Brian Welch Survives Joe Tusa—With a Little Help

What started as a cancellation quickly turned into one of the most chaotic, hard-hitting fights of the night.

Originally scheduled to face Cowboy Jim Spur, Brutal Brian Welch instead walked to the ring alone, mic in hand, and ego fully intact. With Spur not medically cleared following their brutal Bullrope Death Match at Wrestlerama, Welch wasted no time spinning the narrative—boasting that he'd beaten Spur so badly, the man couldn't even compete.

Then came the challenge.

An open invitation to anyone in BRL.

And that's when things got dangerous.

Enter Joe Tusa: Chaos Personified

Before Welch could even soak in the moment, Joe Tusa's music hit—and the energy in the arena shifted instantly.

Tusa didn't walk to the ring. He stormed it.

The moment he got within striking distance, the fight was on. No bell. No formalities. Just fists flying. Tusa attacked like a man possessed, overwhelming Welch with a relentless barrage that caught the veteran completely off guard.

When the bell did ring, it barely mattered.

This wasn't a wrestling match—it was a fight.

A True Slobberknocker

For a long stretch, neither man could claim control. Welch brought his trademark brutality, throwing heavy shots and trying to slow Tusa down. But Tusa refused to be contained, firing back with wild, unpredictable offense that kept Welch guessing at every turn.

They traded blows in the center of the ring, on the ropes, even spilling to the outside—each shot landing with enough force to turn the tide, but never quite enough to end it.

It was raw. It was ugly. It was compelling.

And it felt like it could go either way.

Enter The Brothers Heyman

Then came the shift.

The Brothers Heyman—The Ripper, Buster, and Bruiser—made their way to ringside, and suddenly the dynamic changed. The crowd buzzed with anticipation and concern as the trio began circling the ring like vultures.

Tusa saw them. And from that point on, he had to fight two battles.

Every strike he threw at Welch came with a glance over his shoulder. Every moment of momentum was shadowed by the looming threat outside the ring. It was only a matter of time before the numbers game came into play.

And then... it did.

The Deciding Moment

Welch launched Tusa over the top rope in a desperate attempt to create space—and inadvertently opened the door.

As the referee became distracted with Welch arguing inside the ring, the Brothers Heyman made their move.

Ripper and Buster grabbed Tusa, holding him in place as Bruiser stepped forward, brass knuckles in hand. One clean shot—right to the jaw.

Tusa crumpled instantly.

The trio wasted no time rolling him back into the ring, the damage already done.

Welch saw the opening—and didn't hesitate.

He pulled Tusa up, delivered his devastating finisher—Welch's Jam—and went for the cover.

1... 2... 3.

@HotStuffAdamCashBRL:

“Joe Tusa came in like a hurricane and had Welch on the ropes... until the numbers game kicked in. #BRL”

@DrPainWTL:

“That was a straight-up fight. No technique, just violence. Tusa brought it tonight.”

@StylinSavionBanksNWL:

“Brothers Heyman strike again. Brass knuckles to the jaw and it’s OVER. Seen that story before.”

@WolfBBL:

“Tusa had to fight Welch AND watch his back the whole time. That’s an impossible situation.”

@ShrugShadowACW:

“Welch is dangerous enough on his own. Add in outside interference and it’s game over.”

@ApolloRTL:

“‘Welch’s Jam’ after THAT? Tusa never had a chance to recover. Brutal finish.”

Final Thoughts

Joe Tusa proved something tonight—he can hang with the toughest, most brutal competitors BRL has to offer. In a fair fight, he might have even pulled it off.

But this wasn’t a fair fight.

Brutal Brian Welch walked in expecting an easy night. Instead, he found himself in a war—and needed outside help to survive it. The Brothers Heyman once again made their presence felt, tipping the scales at the exact right moment.

Welch gets the win.

But Joe Tusa leaves with something arguably just as important: momentum, credibility... and a very real reason to want revenge.

TAG TEAM

Chaos, Carnage, and a Monologue for the Ages: Livingston & Danger Capitalize in Wild Tag Team War

If you were expecting a standard tag team match, this one veered off that path almost immediately. Oliver Livingston and Dank Danger clashed with Adam Cash and King Khan in a bout that felt less like a contest and more like a controlled explosion—until it wasn't controlled at all.

From the opening bell, both teams made it clear they weren't here to ease into anything. Cash and Khan brought raw intensity, jumping Livingston early and isolating him in their corner with aggressive double-team offense. Khan's power was on full display, ragdolling Livingston with heavy slams while Cash layered in sharp, opportunistic strikes.

But experience is a currency—and Livingston and Dank Danger are rich in it.

A perfectly timed tag flipped the match on its head, with Danger entering like a man possessed. What followed was a flurry of high-octane offense: a diving crossbody to the outside, a snap powerslam in the ring, and a near fall that had the crowd on edge. Suddenly, it was Cash and Khan scrambling to keep up.

The pace never dipped.

Every time one team seemed to gain control, the other responded with something bigger. Khan nearly decapitated Danger with a brutal lariat. Livingston answered with a precision dropkick that sent Cash crashing into the turnbuckles. At one point, all four men spilled to the outside, trading blows in a chaotic sequence that felt like it could end the match right there.

But somehow, they kept going.

One of the match's standout moments came when Cash and Khan connected on a devastating tandem maneuver that looked like certain victory—only for Livingston to break up the pin at the last possible second. The crowd erupted, fully invested as the near falls kept stacking up.

And then... everything changed.

Just as Cash and Khan were setting up for what appeared to be their finishing sequence, the arena lights flickered. The Jumbotron crackled to life.

Vic Vropta.

What followed can only be described as a monologue of epic proportions. Wordy doesn't even begin to cover it—this was a sprawling, surreal, almost hypnotic speech that seemed to stretch on forever. A 50,000-syllable descent into whatever twisted psyche Vropta operates from. It was unsettling. It was bizarre.

And most importantly—it was effective.

Cash and Khan, clearly thrown off by the sudden interruption, lost focus. Whether it was confusion, frustration, or sheer disbelief, the distraction proved fatal.

Livingston and Dank Danger didn't hesitate.

In a blink-and-you-miss-it sequence, they capitalized—isolating King Khan and delivering a crisp, well-executed double-team finisher that brought the chaos to a sudden end.

1... 2... 3.

Just like that, it was over.

“That match was INSANE and then... Vropta just hijacks it with a TED Talk from the void?? What did I just watch. #BRL”

@TheBadManBBL:

“Cash & Khan had it WON. Completely lost focus when Vropta popped up. You can’t do that against vets like Livingston & Danger.”

@HeManHovenACW:

“Dank Danger was on another level tonight. Dude was flying everywhere. Absolute chaos. #TagTeamWar”

@BrendaBringDaPayneBWL:

“Vic Vropta doesn’t even need to be in the ring to change the outcome. That monologue was unhinged.”

@TheChameleonCWL:

“Livingston & Danger showed why experience matters. They saw the opening and took it instantly. That’s ring IQ.”

Final Thoughts

This match had everything—intensity, brutality, and a pace that never let up. Adam Cash and King Khan looked every bit like a rising force, bringing a level of aggression that nearly secured them the win.

But in the end, it was the veteran savvy of Oliver Livingston and Dank Danger that made the difference. Vic Vropta didn’t just cut a promo—he changed the match. In a contest defined by chaos, it wasn’t a move that decided the outcome. It was a moment.

ONE ON ONE BIG GUNS GREG GARNAR VS. THE KANSAS CITY KID

Veteran Presence Reigns Supreme: Big Guns Greg Garnar Silences the Kansas City Kid

Every promotion needs that one measuring stick—the veteran who defines what it means to make it in the company. In BRL, that man is Big Guns Greg Garnar. And for the hungry, up-and-coming Kansas City Kid, this wasn't just a match—it was a proving ground.

Unfortunately for the Kid, Garnar was in no mood to play gatekeeper lightly.

From the opening bell, the Kansas City Kid came out firing, clearly aware that hesitation against a veteran like Garnar is a death sentence. His speed and agility were on full display early, ducking lariats and peppering Garnar with quick strikes, even landing a flashy dropkick that sent the big man reeling into the ropes.

For a brief moment, it looked like the newcomer might shock the BRL faithful.

But that moment didn't last long.

Garnar, ever the seasoned tactician, slowed the pace with ruthless efficiency. One well-timed counter—catching the Kid mid-springboard and driving him hard into the mat—shifted the entire complexion of the match. From there, it became a clinic.

Every attempt the Kansas City Kid made to regain momentum was met with a veteran's answer. High-flying attack? Garnar cut him off. Strike combination? Garnar absorbed it and responded with something twice as punishing. Even when the Kid managed to string together a flurry, Garnar's ring awareness allowed him to roll out, reset, and reassert control.

That's the difference experience makes.

To the Kid's credit, he never stopped fighting. A particularly impressive sequence saw him counter a powerbomb attempt into a hurricanrana, followed by a near fall that had the crowd buzzing. It wasn't enough to win—but it proved he belonged in the conversation.

Still, Garnar never looked rattled.

As the match wore on, the physical disparity became more apparent. Garnar began imposing his will with heavy offense—thunderous clotheslines, crushing slams, and a methodical breakdown of the Kid's midsection that sapped the life out of the high-flyer's arsenal.

The end felt inevitable.

After shutting down one final desperate aerial attempt, Garnar hoisted the Kansas City Kid up and delivered a devastating finishing maneuver with authority. No wasted motion. No hesitation.

1... 2... 3.

Decisive. Dominant. Definitive.

“Big Guns Greg Garnar just gave a masterclass in veteran control. That’s how you shut down hype. #BRL”

@AriaGunpowderBWL:

“Kansas City Kid showed HEART. Dude kept coming even when Garnar had him figured out. Future is bright. #Respect”

@MannyNuffIWL:

“This wasn’t even close by the end. Garnar had a counter for EVERYTHING. That’s ring IQ you can’t teach.”

@JosueRTL:

“Garnar didn’t just win—he made a statement. Still the standard in BRL. #BigGuns”

@KrushGrooveNWL:

“Kid lost, but gained fans tonight. That hurricanrana counter was slick. He’ll be back.”

Final Thoughts

This was less a back-and-forth war and more a lesson in hierarchy.

The Kansas City Kid walked in with momentum, confidence, and the desire to make a name for himself—but Big Guns Greg Garnar reminded everyone why he’s been at the top for so long. It wasn’t flashy dominance; it was calculated, suffocating control.

The Kid showed promise—no question about it. But on this night, he ran into a wall named Greg Garnar.

And that wall didn’t budge.

TRIPLE THREAT

A Macabre Masterpiece: Vropta Outlasts Death Itself in Brutal Triple Threat

When three competitors walk into a match embodying death, torture, and the afterlife, you don't expect a traditional wrestling contest—you expect something closer to a descent into madness. That's exactly what fans got when Vic Vropta, Nocturnal Death, and River Foggs collided in a triple threat that blurred the line between spectacle and nightmare.

From the opening bell, the tone was unmistakable. The arena lights dimmed, casting long shadows as all three men circled each other like predators sizing up their next victim. River Foggs struck first, launching himself into the fray with reckless abandon, catching both opponents off guard with a diving forearm that sent Vropta spilling to the outside and staggered Nocturnal Death into the corner.

Foggs' chaotic energy was the perfect counterbalance to the cold, calculated aura of Nocturnal Death. The latter responded with a chilling display of control—methodically dismantling Foggs with punishing strikes and a spine-snapping backbreaker that seemed designed to extract pain rather than simply win the match.

But every time one man gained control, Vic Vropta re-emerged like something that refused to stay buried.

Vropta's presence in this match was undeniable. He absorbed punishment that would have ended most competitors, only to rise again with a sinister calm. One of the first major turning points came when Vropta intercepted a top-rope maneuver from Foggs, turning it into a devastating mid-air powerbomb that drew an immediate roar from the crowd.

Nocturnal Death seized the moment, nearly stealing the match with a hauntingly executed finisher on Vropta—a move that looked like it drove the very life out of him. The referee's hand hit two... but Vropta somehow kicked out, sending shockwaves through the arena.

The match escalated into chaos from there.

At one point, all three men traded finishers in rapid succession—Foggs hitting a breathtaking springboard cutter on Nocturnal Death, only for Vropta to level Foggs with a thunderous lariat that turned him inside out. The crowd was fully invested, hanging on every near fall as the match refused to settle into any predictable rhythm.

Perhaps the most jaw-dropping moment came when Nocturnal Death attempted a double chokeslam, hoisting both opponents simultaneously. For a split second, it looked like he might succeed—but Foggs slipped free, shoving Vropta down with Death in a brutal collapse that left all three men laid out.

It was war. Plain and simple.

In the final sequence, Vropta's resilience proved to be the deciding factor. After surviving yet another near fall, he capitalized on a rare opening—catching River Foggs mid-motion and planting him with a crushing finisher. Nocturnal Death attempted to break it up, but he was just a heartbeat too late.

1... 2... 3.

Live Social Media Reactions

@BradTheExecutionerHeartACW:

“Vic Vropta just refused to DIE. That kickout against Nocturnal Death was unreal. #TripleThreatMadness”

@TheCobraRileyOrtonWTL:

“River Foggs might be the most chaotic force in wrestling right now. Dude moves like he’s possessed. #FoggsFever”

@McKennaAnthonyNWL:

“Nocturnal Death nearly chokeslammed TWO grown men at once... I’m still processing that. #UnholyStrength”

@JamminJohnnyLoveBBL:

“THIS MATCH HAS EVERYTHING. Pain, drama, near falls, and somehow Vropta survives it all. Insane.”

@MeanMr.FistCWL:

“Vic Vropta isn’t just a winner—he’s inevitable. You can’t kill what won’t stay down. #AfterlifeAce”

Final Thoughts

This wasn’t just a match—it was an experience. Each competitor brought their character to life in a way that elevated the entire contest. River Foggs proved he thrives in chaos, Nocturnal Death reinforced his terrifying dominance, and Vic Vropta cemented himself as something more than human.

In a match built around death... Vic Vropta was the one who simply refused to stay buried.

Final Bell Fallout: Veterans Stand Tall, Chaos Reigns, and the Future Fights Back

Tuesday Night Grand Slam didn't just deliver—it reshaped the landscape of BRL in a single night.

At the top of the card, Vic Vropta walked through absolute carnage and came out the other side, proving once again that no matter how much punishment he takes, he simply refuses to stay down. In a match built on destruction, Vropta was the last one standing—and that should put the entire locker room on notice.

Elsewhere, the tag team division continued its spiral into unpredictability. Oliver Livingston and Dank Danger secured the win in a high-octane war, but even in victory, the sense of control felt fleeting. In BRL, it only takes a second—one distraction, one moment—for everything to fall apart. Brutal Brian Welch learned that the hard way. What he expected to be a showcase turned into a straight-up fight when Joe Tusa answered the call. Tusa brought chaos, aggression, and zero fear—but in the end, the ever-present reality of outside interference once again dictated the outcome. Welch got the win... but not without questions lingering in the air. And then there's Big Guns Greg Garnar.

While the rest of the night was defined by chaos, Garnar was something else entirely—certainty. The Kansas City Kid stepped up with heart, energy, and flashes of real promise, pushing the pace early and refusing to back down. But Garnar didn't panic. He didn't lose control. He adapted, countered, and ultimately dismantled the newcomer with a performance that was as dominant as it was methodical.

It wasn't just a win—it was a reminder.

In a company full of rising stars and uncontrollable violence, Greg Garnar is still the measuring stick.

This episode wasn't about one moment—it was about momentum shifting across the board. Veterans tightening their grip. Newcomers proving they belong. And chaos creeping into every corner of BRL.

The lines are being drawn.

The stakes are rising.

And if this week was any indication... BRL is only getting more dangerous from here.

To The Victor Goes The Spoils

By Shakespeare Williams

When trumpets sound and battle lines are drawn,
And hopeful men pursue the victor's grace,
The stage is set from dusk until the dawn
For one to rise and claim the rightful place.

Let others boast with thunder in their breath,
And dream of glory shining in their sight;
Yet dreams must bow before the dance of death
When steel of will decides the coming fight.

For I am he whom fortune favors most,
Whose name shall echo through the roaring halls;
Where rivals fade like phantoms in a ghost,
And prideful kings are humbled in their falls.

So learn this truth when victory crowns the soil—
The victor stands, and claims the conquered spoil.

[Scene opens in the dimly lit “Court of the Damned.” A single light bulb swings overhead. Gavel Graves stands at the podium, gavel in hand. Vex Virelli leans nearby, grinning. Nocturnal Death stands behind them, motionless... watching.]

GAVEL GRAVES: Court... is now in session. There are those in this business who celebrate temporary victories... Who cling to fleeting moments... Who mistake a minor setback... for a change in outcome.

[He slowly raises the gavel.]

Let the record show... The pursuit of the BRL Global Tag-Team Championships... has not been denied. It has been... adjourned.

[He slams the gavel once.]

A delay. Nothing more. Because justice— is not rushed. Justice... is inevitable.

VEX VIRELLI: (smiling, pacing) Ohhh I love that word... adjourned. Not over... not finished... just waiting... Waiting for the moment when the verdict drops... and crushes whoever thought they got away. You boys holding those titles? Enjoy it. Because the Dark Verdict doesn't forget. And we don't forgive.

GAVEL GRAVES: And while others chase gold... and measure themselves by wins and losses... There is one among us... who answers to something far more absolute.

[He slowly turns toward Nocturnal Death.]

Nocturnal Death... does not care about championships. He does not care about records. He does not care about your legacy. He cares about one thing... pain.

[Nocturnal Death slowly steps forward into the light.]

GAVEL GRAVES: And at Wrestlerama... during the Royal Rumble... that mission was carried out. Pain was delivered. Suffering was ensured. And the message... was received.

VEX VIRELLI: (leaning in, whispering toward the camera) You felt it, didn't you? That moment when everything went quiet... right before it all went wrong... That's him. That's Death.

GAVEL GRAVES: And now... the next case awaits. At Tuesday Night's Grand Slam... a Triple Threat Death Match. Vic Vropta. River "The Ferryman" Foggs.

[Graves pauses.]

Two men... summoned to stand before Death.

[Nocturnal Death tilts his head slightly, staring into the camera.]

GAVEL GRAVES: They will enter that ring... with hope. With confidence. With the belief... that they will survive. But the court already knows the truth.

[He raises the gavel high.]

Nocturnal Death... does not compete. He collects.

[SLAM.]

GAVEL GRAVES: Case... dismissed.

[Vex Virelli laughs quietly as Nocturnal Death remains staring into the camera. The light flickers. Fade to black.]

If you are rooting for Mic Ferrari then you can beat your house that he is bringing home the victory and if you are rooting for anyone else then I have to ask...What the hell is wrong with you?

The Playboy Mic Ferrari: With the exception of Punk Rock Mike and Agent 26 the rest of these guys have accomplished exactly squat in their lackluster careers as what we all refer to as Curtain Jerkers. So you eliminate everyone but the three former World Champions and then we get to see the best man win, No since it is an over the top battle royal I guess anyone can literally win it, but rest assured good friends in the BRL the

Playboy has this in the bag

WHOOPO ASS INC

4 x IWA WORLD SIX MAN CHAMPIONS

8 x BRL LEAGUE SIX MAN CHAMPIONS

ALPHA MALE # 15: Wrestlerama is this month and we are defending the Global Trios Championships against team DOD and we are very much looking forward to the fight. We have held these titles for nearly 8 months. Defeating all challengers and Team DOD will be no different. See you all in the ring on Tuesday boys

ALPHA MALE # 69: The BRL has a lot of great six man teams. Many are lining up for their shots at us and to that we say bring it on boys, we take on all challengers

ALPHA MALE # 87: The number one contenders match at Wrestlerama will see the Brothers Heyman vs The Regulators and we honestly don't care who wins. We look forward to facing the winners at the next PPV and walking out as Champions

VV: Look at me.

VV: Look at this gold.

VV: Look at this smile.

VV: I told all of you vermin I would become BRL Champion...

VV: And that is exactly what I have done.

VV: Hahahahaha!

VV: Every last one of you heard me.

VV: Every last one of you doubted me.

VV: And now every last one of you has to live in a world where Vic "The Vicious" Vropta stands at the top of the BRL.

VV: Not beside the top.

VV: Not chasing the top.

VV: I am the top.

VV: I am the greatest wrestler in the BRL today.

VV: I will be the greatest wrestler in the BRL for the foreseeable future.

VV: And my future?

VV: My future is despair for everyone else.

VV: My future is mayhem.

VV: My future is a long black hallway of fear that every wrestler in this locker room has to walk through, knowing I'm waiting at the end of it.

VV: You see that list?

VV: Those names with the lines through them?

VV: That is my artwork.

VV: That is my record of torment.

VV: That is the evidence.

VV: The ones marked off are the ones I broke.

VV: The ones I beat.

VV: The ones I visited in the ring and left shaking when it was over.

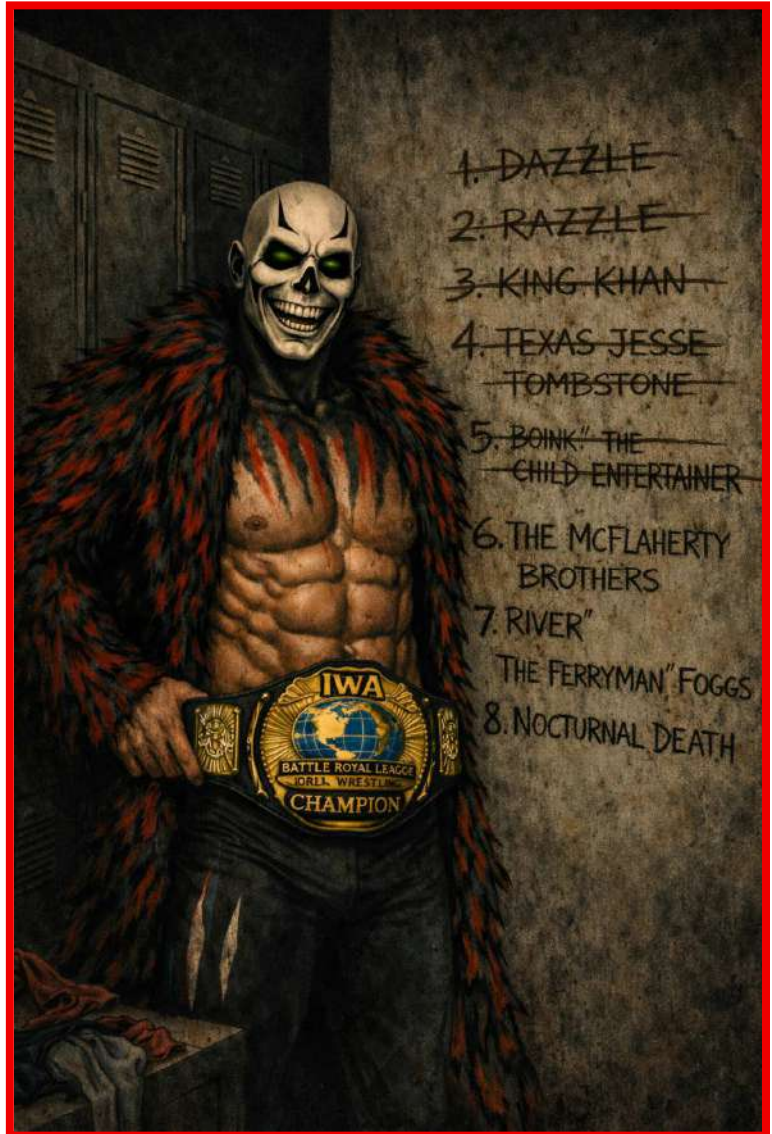

VV: My reign will not be measured in days.

VV: It will be measured in terror.

VV: In panic.

VV: In the sleepless nights of every wrestler who hears my name and feels their stomach drop.

VV: They will all be driven into fear.

VV: Into animal terror.

VV: Into that delicious little place where brave men stop pretending.

VV: King Khan...

VV: Let's talk about you.

VV: You said Vic talks better than he wrestles.

VV: You said I need to shut my mouth.

VV: leans toward the camera, eyes wide Khan, you need to shut your F'N mouth and keep it shut...

VV: Or I will staple it shut permanently.

VV: Because I can talk.

VV: And I can wrestle.

VV: And I can hurt people while doing both.

VV: Ask Texas Jesse Tombstone.

VV: Ask The Dazzlers.

VV: Ask Doink.

VV: I beat their arses.

VV: I beat them down and made examples out of them.

VV: And Tombstone?

VV: Ohhh, Tombstone got special treatment.

VV: I beat the holy hell out of Tombstone first at Yanaka Cemetery...

VV: Then I did it again at the Tokyo Dome for WrestleRama 14.

VV: Hahahahaha!

VV: That man was so easy to torment.

VV: So easy to unravel.

VV: So easy to drag down into the dirt where he belonged.

VV: And now all the wrestlers I've conquered?

VV: They're beneath me.

VV: Subhuman.

VV: Not worth my time anymore.

VV: They can kick rocks like the lowly scum they are.

VV: They had their chance to stand in front of greatness.

VV: They failed.

VV: They got crossed off.

VV: And now they get to watch.

VV: That's all they're good for.

VV: Watching.

VV: Watching me rise.

VV: Watching me laugh.

VV: Watching me become everything they never could be.

VV: And you know something else I will enjoy?

VV: That 3-way death match with River “The Ferryman” Foggs and Nocturnal Death.

VV: I relish it.

VV: Because that is where I feel at ease.

VV: Death.

VV: Destruction.

VV: Chaos.

VV: That is my natural habitat.

VV: That is my home.

VV: That is the world where I thrive while everyone else perishes.

VV: Slowly.

VV: Painfully.

VV: In pure anguish.

VV: The McFlaherty Brothers...

VV: I accept your challenge.

VV: Gladly.

VV: Happily.

VV: Hungrily.

VV: Because I love bringing fear and insanity to entire families.

VV: I will wreck you.

VV: I will wreck your name.

VV: I will wreck the next five generations of McFlahertys for all eternity.

VV: I will turn your family tree into a warning sign.

VV: And to every BRL wrestler still breathing in this locker room...

VV: I will stalk you.

VV: I will torment you.

VV: I will haunt every step you take until the sound of my laughter lives in your bones.

VV: I am your BRL League Champion.

VV: I rule with pain.

VV: I rule with misery.

VV: And I will keep ruling while the whole BRL rots beneath me.

VV: throws his head back and laughs hysterically as the camera lingers on the crossed-out names on the wall
Hahahahaha!

Ohhhhhh hellllllllrooooo BRL. It Chinese Hero Ching Chong Jones. Yeah Ching Chong say he stay to help COT win Cade of Stables. Turn out Willowick not play Cade of Stable entry. Also turn out they use Cade of Stables contest to buy butt lube for Israeli bomb shelters. Oh well. I guess Elrod get money back. Ching Chong need to address rumor. It said Elrod and Ching Chong same person. Easy to confuse. Thing to remember is Ching Chong have massive brain and Elrod have massive hog.

Also it asked why Ching Chong hang around? Well it turn out BRL win 10 free matches for having good strategies. Even when Punk Rock Man Frens have bad strategies BRL still get rewarded. Ching Chong love free things so I help El Chingo De Chongo. We see how long this last.

You know Willowick lucky some people Play By PDF. Sending 88 page fish wrap to people with dumb nicknames get expensive. What good activity if cost to play high. That why HAL great IWA league. It why NDL-A-Bama great league.

HAL home of Ching Chong. It Great Value Ketchup of IWA. Just as good as other league but half the price. Ching Chong see Medved Machines make BRL appearance.

NDL-A-Bama is home to Great Elrod and his Masked Fren. Comic Book Man with Stutter play there too. He used to tell people how to make good numbers in IWA but they end that video series.

Ching Chong look forward to staying in league with great Frandel. Well it 9pm eastern time. Ching Chong just playing to get his 10 free matches.

Hope No Neck Man blood pressure ok.

Ching Chong Out.

Bullman Bolt: Hey, Joe Tusa, team better with us and get out of sucky jail! Bullman Bolt here on behalf of Team ACE. Obviously, I'm being kept out of WM14 to concentrate on keeping our friend Joe in line for tag gold. Also, me and Frandel are trying out for UWL! The Spaceman was one of BRL's top finalists last time, and with both of us gathering sweet, sweet momentum, I feel we've got a real shot at that Unknown belt and twenty-five bonus matches. All we want to do right now is beat the blahs and rock the house. Sure, that attitude might cost us Grand Slam bookings, but, hey, BRL locker room, challenge Team ACE and get two of the most tenured names in IWA history to give you the best competition you've ever had!

Galaxy's Most Wanted with Frandel Warpslayer

Hey, Boink, congrats on your lukewarm start in the BRL. That Dan Dee lived in fear of a man of your middling talents will never cease to amaze me. At any rate, I'm getting a big cut of Mr. Dee's settlement money to put you out to pasture at WR14, so I might as well cut to the chase. If there's one thing that creeps me out more than clowns, it's black holes. More than black holes, it's watching America become a living "Judge Dredd" story. More than that, it's raw, unfettered mediocrity. We need to do something about that, buddy. Prepare for the ACE examination of your young life, one that won't save you from an Iso-Cube in Mega-City One, but which might smarten you up for this thing we call IWAR. Here comes the showdown, clown! By the way, call me Space Wisp.

(Hollywood DVS enters his Limo as they prepare to head to the PPV) The driver stops and can't go.....

Hollywood jumps out of the car

Hollywood: What the heck is going on here brother?

Driver: It looks like someone slashed all the tires... we aren't going anywhere!

Hollywood: I CAN'T BELIEVE THIS! THIS WAS MY BIG SHOT THAT I EARNED IN THE BATTLE ROYAL! WHOEVER DID THIS IS GOING TO PAY DEARLY. I CAN'T BELIEVE THIS DUDE! (Hollywood grabs the driver and pounds him in the face and then throws him over the car as he storms off)

“Big Guns” Greg Garnar: Wrestlerama 14! I hate to admit it, but I didn't get the job done. “Big Guns” Greg Garnar vs. Monster Truck Tanaka in a 2 out of 3 falls match. We tore the house down, you and I. There was extreme violence, plenty of bloodshed, and unbearable pain we caused each other. On this one night, you were the victor. Rarely do I give any credit to someone, but I and the rest of PAD threw everything at you. Including the kitchen sink. But you kept coming back time and time again. And to top it off, you got the victory at Wrestlerama. So, enjoy this while it lasts. I still hate you with a passion! Down the road, whether it's a short road or a long road, we will clash again. But for now, I must decide on what the next move is. So PAD and our Dynasty brothers will need to get together and decide what we're going to do next. The BRL needs to be very, very scared.

Tuesday Night Grand Slam. “Big Guns” Greg Garnar vs. The Kansas City Kid. Kid, you don't even belong in the same ring with me. I'm not going to hold back. I'm going to beat you within an inch of your life. It's just one of life's lessons I'm going to have to teach you. It's going to be so bad for you that you won't ever want to wrestle again.

Tell'um, AD!

American Destroyer: It was a great situation at Wrestlerama. All Hillbilly Kevin had to do was work with me against Killer Khan and bring the North American Title to the PAD and Dynasty Alliance. But you didn't do that, did you, Kevin? A missed opportunity and Killer Khan is still the champ.

Maybe we're not creating enough chaos around here. My patience is running thin. Which brings me to Uncle McAllister. I don't believe for one second that you've had a visa problem. I believe you've had a coward problem. You've been drunk, laying in the gutter like a sewer rat with a yellow stripe down your back. Your day is coming.

Pain and Destruction and Dynasty are the cause of your Pain and the reason for your Total Destruction!!

Tell'em, scary man!

River “The Ferryman” Foggs: At Tuesday Night Grand Slam, I will face off against Nocturnal Death and Vic “The Vicious” Vropta in a 3-way Death Match.

Nocturnal Death. You hide in the shadows in the darkness of death. You never speak, only waiting for your victims. Cat got your tongue? Cats have nine lives, though, and you only have one.

Vic “The Vicious” Vropta. You kidnap your enemies and take them down to the bowels of the arenas. You torture them, cause them pain. You drain blood from their bodies. I must admit, I do enjoy the torture you put them through.

What does all this mean, gentlemen? The darkness and torture you bring doesn't matter. Because when it's all said and done, “The Ferryman” takes everyone on their final ride. I will take you both to the other side. You will never be heard from again. You better hope and pray that I don't throw you into the water before we get there.

Soon or later, everybody pays The Ferryman!!

Suburban Hell Savages

The arena in Rock Creek erupts into a roar of cheering as the “Straight Outta Hell” by Agent 51 starts playing over the loudspeakers. A moment later Punk Rock Mike and Agent 26 walk out onto the stage. Then, The McFlaherty Brothers walk onto the stage flanking Punk Rock Mike on his right. Flanking Agent 26 comes Patrick O’Malley and “Money Driven” Mike Sebastian walking onto the stage while Pat holds up his whiteboard sign reading “It’s Time For Wrestlerama!”. Meanwhile, Thumbtack Jack flanks Pat on his left as finally Michael Pryzbylewski comes in next to Brendan and Ruairi McFlaherty on their right and embraces them quickly before standing in position next to Brendan. All of the SHS raise their fist enthusiastically in the air. The fans chant “SHS! SHS!” even louder as all eight of them make their way down into the ring and raise their fists again for the enthusiastic crowd. After taking it all in for a few moments, Punk Rock Mike raises his mic to speak.

Punk Rock Mike: Now this is what I call a warm welcome at the start of a show! How are we doing, Rock Creek?

The crowd begins to cheer loudly.

Punk Rock Mike: That's what I like to hear. We got a lot to talk about today, but first and foremost, let me welcome Michael Pryzbylewski to the Suburban Hell Savages!

The crowd cheers loudly again, this time going back to the “SHS! SHS!” chants. Finally, after a minute of the chants going on, Michael raises his own mic to speak.

Michael Pryzbylewski: It’s great to be here, Mike, and still standing after our instant classic match at Tuesday Night Grand Slam.

Punk Rock Mike: I said it then, and I’ll say it again. That was a match that I will never forget.

Agent 26: Speaking of Grand Slam, I wanted to take this opportunity to say something myself to Brutal Brian Welch. You and I had a technical war for the record books and you pushed me to my limit. And while it was my arm that was raised at the end of the match, like Apollo Creed said Rocky 2, I won, but I didn’t beat you. I know that you have a match with Cowboy Jim Spur this Wrestlerama, and trust me I will be keeping a close eye on that, but after Wrestlerama, at Imagibash, I challenge you, Brian Welch, to go one on one with me one more time and see if lightning can in fact strike twice.

The crowd cheers wildly in response and anticipation of the possible future match at Imagibash.

Punk Rock Mike: Now that’s something that I can’t wait to see. Not only that, though, I still can’t wait to see Brendan and Ruairi over here continue advancing in the Marano Memorial Tag Team Tournament and the Catfish/Clark Classic until they make history and bring those trophies to the SHS. And we will be here supporting you both every step of the way as you win the match for the opportunity at reclaiming the BRL Global Tag Team Championships. But don’t think we’ll only be there to watch. Agent 26 and I will be competing in Wrestlerama’s 8th Royal Rumble and you better believe that we aim to come out on top. We are only just getting started in 2026 and the year will end with the Suburban Hell Savages burning brighter than ever before.

The audience cheers even more loudly in response as “Straight Outta Hell” plays again on the loudspeakers and the screen fades to black.

[THE WRESTLERAMA 14 MEDIA SCRUM IS JOINED BY HOT $TUFF ADAM CASH]

Adam Ca$h: Take a good look, after a long, long time, I can say I'm a two-time Global champ.

Dan Dee: Congratulations. How long has it been since you held that title?

Adam Ca$h: Too long! January of 2019 (looks at phone) Whoa. That's a long-ass time. I've had some close calls, but I worked for this and the hard work paid off. (Adam 'tips his cap' to Dan) All you reporters, take a look at Danny, gets whopped by Frandel Warpslayer and saved by Boink all in the same match? Franny's just pissed he can never find a key chain with his name on it at gift shops, but if his pal Bullman Bolt offers 100 Free matches again, let me know.

Angela Hurtz: That was an amazing victory over The Narcissist Lex Stevenson, but how did you game plans for one of the top stars in the IWA with so much on the line, when he's been on fire?

Adam Ca$h: The BRL is ALL about getting the biggest names in the IWA in here and Lex is a great example. He came in here and just demolished one dude after the next, he had a little help taking down Hawaiian Heartthrob when he won the Global title from him, which is why I was ready for his Diabolical Kingdom buddies showed up. It took all my finishers, Double R's finisher and even Dick Jackson's Dedicated DDT to beat him, but I doubt that's the last I'll see of ol' Flex.

Shooter Simmons: Yo champ, who'd you dedicated that DDT too? (Adam points up and grins) Yah we all know. Now listen, you can't rest because you'll have to face the winner of the 8th Royal Rumble, Super Sexy Shane Dowell, a former IWA Champion. How do you prepare?

Adam Ca$h: I'll have Fatty jump him and gash him with his fork! (the reporters go silent) Kidding! I will get ready for Shane by watching tape, studying his ring style and figure out his approach. The BRL is a hot spot for talent and Shane Dowell, Lex and more on this roster are great examples of why the BRL is the IWA's toughest league. Which is exactly how I want it because every win is that much bigger. There will be time for all that tomorrow, because tonight we celebrate!

BOINK: The screen flickers to life in a burst of colorful static. Balloons drift lazily across the frame... until one pops. Boink slowly leans into view, head tilted, painted grin stretched just a little too wide.

BOINK: Ohhhhhh, Vic... Vic, Vic, Vic...

BOINK: soft giggle You talk about screams like they're your toys.

BOINK: You talk about tears like they're your prizes.

BOINK: But you don't understand something, do you?

BOINK: leans closer, eyes suddenly sharp beneath the paint I've heard screams before.

BOINK: I've seen tears before.

BOINK: I make children laugh in a world that tries to scare them.

BOINK: And you?

BOINK: You're just another loud noise in the dark.

Boink reaches off-screen and pulls a curtain into frame. He yanks it open quickly—nothing behind it but darkness.

BOINK: Check behind every curtain?

BOINK: grins wider I already did.

BOINK: And all I found... was you hiding there, hoping someone would finally be afraid.

He suddenly claps his hands—confetti bursts into the air, but the colors look slightly off... darker than they should be.

BOINK: You want to wipe this smile off my face?

BOINK: You better bring more than whispers and boiler-room theatrics.

BOINK: Because this smile?

BOINK: taps his cheek slowly It doesn't come off.

Boink leans in extremely close now, voice dropping just a notch lower, more serious than before.

BOINK: You took a picture, Vic?

BOINK: Good.

BOINK: Make sure you keep it.

BOINK: Because when all your "big, ugly plans" fall apart...

BOINK: You're gonna want something to remember the moment you met the one thing you couldn't break.

He suddenly snaps back, spinning into a playful pose, honking an unseen horn—

BOINK: HONK HONK!

BOINK: See you soon, funny man.

The screen distorts again—this time the laughter isn't clear whether it's Boink's... or something layered underneath it—as it cuts to black.

[The screen fades in. A gritty gym setting. Chains clank, fists hit heavy bags. The camera slowly pans to reveal Armas Brothers — Andrew and Alex Armas — standing side by side, sweat dripping, eyes locked in.]

ANDREW ARMAS:
cracks his neck, smirking slightly
Funny... real funny.

ALEX ARMAS:
You out here talking about “giving thanks”... like this business owes you something.

ANDREW ARMAS:
Let’s get one thing straight—
We don’t need a handout.
We don’t need a replacement spot.

ALEX ARMAS:
And we sure as hell don’t need you speaking for us.

Andrew steps forward, pointing directly into the camera.

ANDREW ARMAS:
You said we’re “ready to step in”?

You’re damn right we are.

ALEX ARMAS:
But not as backups. Not as substitutes.

We step in to take over.

The two brothers bump fists, intensity rising.

ANDREW ARMAS:
BRL—listen closely.

ALEX ARMAS:
Any team. Any night.

ANDREW ARMAS:
Doesn't matter if it's RAZZLE DAZZLE—

ALEX ARMAS:
—or the loudest mouths in the locker room trying to wave a flag and hide behind it.

ANDREW ARMAS:
We're not here for speeches.

ALEX ARMAS:
We're here for fights.

Both step forward together now, voices in sync.

ARMAS BROTHERS:
ANY. TAG. TEAM.

ANDREW ARMAS:
You want to talk about the biggest show of the year?

ALEX ARMAS:
Good.

ANDREW ARMAS:
Because we're ready to steal it.

ALEX ARMAS:
And we don't need permission...

ANDREW ARMAS:
We take the opportunity.

Andrew smirks, Alex cracks his knuckles.

ANDREW ARMAS:
So don't thank them...

ALEX ARMAS:
Don't thank you...

ARMAS BROTHERS:
Get ready for us.

[The camera lingers as they return to training—harder, faster—before cutting to black.]

The McFlaherty Brothers are walking downtown the evening after Wrestlerama

Ruairi McFlaherty: “Regulators, Dark Verdict gotta say it, you boys brought it.”

Brendan McFlaherty: “Aye, there’s more to say about that and Imagibash for the Global tag team titles, but we’ve been neglecting our boy Prez here for too long.”

Ruairi: “Aye, come on over here and join us Mike, you’ve deserved this for a while.”

Michael Pryzbylowski walks over to the two brothers

Michael: “What’s going on guys. Big win at Wrestlerama. And thanks for the invite into the Suburban Hell Savages, I mean I don’t think I’m everyone else’s level, but”

Brendan: “Nonsense. You went toe to toe with Punk Rock Mike on Tuesday Night and then you teamed with us to win the Catfish & Clark Classic. That is enough.”

Ruairi: “Aye, you’ve won your share of titles before ya came here too. And look, we got a big match coming up soon too - a chance to win the IWAR World Six-man titles.”

Brendan: “It’d be great to take a title from the Regulators. I gotta say losing to the Van Snapps in the Marano stung - we will see them again. But see Prez, it’s onto the next big match. We can really stick it to the Regulators at Imagiclash”.

Ruairi: “Now in a tag team match, I think that the public knows that we can mix it up with anyone, but to beat the Regulators for the Six-man belts, that’d be something”

Michael: “They should think that we can compete with them - you guys just beat them & I just took Punk Rock Mike to the limit; It’ll be my biggest match, but I’ll be ready!”

Brendan: “Aye, that’s the spirit! Speaking of spirits, Unc wanted to meet us for a drink.”

The camera cuts. Now the trio are outside of a pub, they make their way past a bouncer to a private area, where Uncle McAllister is wearing large sunglasses and a cap

Uncle McAllister: “I know you and the boys in the back have been wondering where I’ve been, well, I can’t say for legal reasons. Now let me get to the point lads - American Destroyer - you want me gone and I need to pay some debts, so how about you and I mix it up at Tuesday Night Grand Slam? I win, you give me $500K, you win I leave the BRL. If you have the minerals, I am sure you will accept. Now what are we drinking?”

The others look at Uncle McAllister & shrug as a bottle of Irish Whiskey is brought out.

CHARGES DROPPED! MCALLISTER, BRL 'STAR', REACHES DEAL

Las Vegas, NV - (AP) The professional wrestling world can finally breathe a sigh of relief. Uncle McAllister, the beloved and flamboyant uncle of the McFlaherty Brothers, known for his outlandish outfits and fiery interviews, is a free man after months of being under investigation for a sports gambling fixing scheme.

The investigation, which began several months ago, centered around allegations that McAllister had used inside information to bet on the Irish National Soccer team to make the World Cup. It was rumored that McAllister had connections within the team and was aware of a potential scandal that would affect the team's performance.

While McAllister maintained his innocence throughout the investigation, he did admit to betting on the team. He also conceded that he had been out of the country for an extended period, leading to speculation that he was avoiding the authorities.

"I may be a lot of things, but I'm no cheater," McAllister said in a statement released by his publicist. "I love Ireland. I put my money where my heart was, and the wankers lost. No luck of the Irish this time."

However, the charges were dropped after McAllister reached a settlement with the casino where he placed the bets. The Golden Nugget, a prominent casino on the Las Vegas Strip, agreed to drop the charges in exchange for McAllister paying off his $1 million debt.

"We are pleased that this matter has been resolved and that we can move forward," said Golden Nugget CEO Frank Sinatra Jr. "We believe that this is the best outcome for all parties involved."

McAllister's few fans were overjoyed to hear the news. Many had feared that he would face jail time and that his wrestling career would be over or worse - mess things up for the McFlahertys.

"This is the best day of my life!" said one fan, who seemed a wee bit hammered outside a pub and wished to remain anonymous. "Uncle McAllister is the greatest! I knew he was innocent!"

The investigation into the sports gambling fixing scheme has raised concerns about the integrity of professional sports. However, the decision to drop the charges against McAllister has also been criticized by some who believe that he should have been held accountable for his actions.

"This is a classic case of rich and famous people getting away with things that ordinary people would go to jail for," said one critic. "It sends the wrong message to the public."

Despite the criticism, McAllister is now free to return to the wrestling ring. The BRL did not comment on where he fit into their plans for upcoming PPVs or their flagship Tuesday Night Grand Slam program.
