

IMAGIMANIA XXXII:

Signed in Blood

On an otherwise uneventful Friday at IWA Headquarters, three wrestlers from the Psychotic Killer League stormed into President Johnny B's office during the security guard shift change. They stated in no uncertain terms that they were disgruntled with their current managerial situation (well, words to that effect) and demanded to be released from their contracts immediately.

Former IWA World Champion "The Maniac" Randy Blaze, Hell Warrior, and The Unholy claimed the final straw was manager Jerry Anderson of Michigan refusing to allow the trio to compete in the recent Specialty Championships, instead ordering them to conserve their strength for upcoming in-league title matches which never panned out.

Johnny tried to calmly and rationally explain about our long-standing policy against transferring ownership from one manager to another, but ended up explaining to IWA staff members how the conversation ended: "Trust me, when you have approximately 1,000 pounds of angry muscle staring you in the face, you'd rather have your policy be what gets thrown out the window."

Their contract termination notices filed and approved, the erstwhile property of Mr. Anderson are now offering up their services as hired guns to the three managers that, by placing highest in this tournament, prove themselves worthy of those services. And we're sweetening the deal with $575,000 in blood money, because you guys are the best.

Here, then, are the prizes in store for 10 fearless souls: first place is worth $250,000 plus the contract of "The Maniac" Randy Blaze (1,267-322-13, $1,672,500 *68). The wrestler who comes in second will receive $100,000, and his manager will add Hell Warrior (551-50-34, $236,600 *26) to his stable. The Unholy (498-5-62, $465,100 *28) will sign with the owner of the third place finisher, who will him- or herself earn $50,000. And those coming in fourth through tenth will be awarded, respectively, $40K, $35K, $30K, $25K, $20K, $15K, and $10K.

Befitting this odd situation, the winners will be determined by the total of all the odd hold positions (1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, 13, and 15) in each entrant's strategy. Point flow will be used to break any draws, and if we need even more of a tie breaker, we'll add up the even hold positions of those that tied.

To enter, neatly fill out the form below, put it in the envelope containing your league matches, and enclose $3 for each wrestler who will be participating in this unique event.

Now, we do realize that some may view this "managerial reassignment" as a rather dirty trick, so we're treating the Autism Society of America to 100% of the proceeds to balance things out — karma, and all that. (And speaking of karma, consider donating more than just your entry fees, and remember to check if your employer has a matching donations program.)

Who will gain the contract of a former World Champion already qualified to enter our Hall of Fame? Someone who enters this contest, that's who, so sign up today... in blood!

Notes: You may enter as many of your wrestlers as you wish, but each entry must be accompanied by the $3 fee, and you may not enter the same wrestler more than once. Entries received without the proper contest fees are ineligible. The IWA is not responsible for late or misdirected entries. You must submit your entries with your regular league matches since they will be processed at the same time.

My name: _____ League: _____ L

ID numbers of the wrestlers I am entering: _____

In addition to my entry fees, I wish to donate an extra $_____ to the ASA. Include my name (or alias) on the list of "Above and Beyond" donors.